

Mike Russell of MKR Solutions Ltd and Andy Skinner of AMS Consultants Ltd have been working together for some time delivering Lean 6 Sigma skills and services to SMEs across the region.

Using this methodology, we have now developed a programme help SME's and Micro businesses to start their journey on the road to Net Zero and understand their process waste.

We understand setting Net Zero goals does not necessarily mean high-cost tech solutions and by using our proven approach, businesses focus on their efficiency and productivity questioning the very need for the energy they use and the way they deliver their products and services.

Ours is a low-cost starting point that not only creates the pathway to Net Zero but also drives a more sustainable culture and a more profitable business.
